

Cockrill Clip 5

[These facilitator notes provide commentary and ideas that might be helpful as you use these raw video clips with other educators.]

This clip is a good reminder that it's not just the instructors who hold expertise in the classroom—students have it, too. We like the moment when Cockrill brings in her student who's an EMT to ask about his experiences with medical emergencies on flights, after the physician instructors have shared theirs. We also appreciate how Cockrill uses humor in addressing this (somewhat scary!) topic: the need for doctors to treat patients in highly non-ideal circumstances. Why does she take this somewhat lengthy detour into sharing personal experiences?
