

Kegan Clip 5

[These facilitator notes provide commentary and ideas that might be helpful as you use these raw video clips with other educators.]

It can be hard to have relevant examples at the ready. Here Kegan fielded a question and was able to answer it generally, but then also give a specific example from his personal experience. In addition to offering clear guidance, sharing personal examples can help humanize you as the instructor. How might you make it more likely that you will have relevant examples or experiences to share with your students when certain questions or concepts arise? (One tip we have is to document important things that came up in a given class session and to revisit those notes before you teach the class session in subsequent years.)